He Denies L. M. Lockwood's Charge of Discrimination.

Course Taken by the Industrial Commission Regarding Testimony-All Treated Alike,

A meeting of the District of Columbia branch of the American Anti-Trust League was held last evening to consider charges made by L. M. Lockwood against the industrial commission to the effect that the commission had changed his evidence by omitting certain portions of it before having it printed. Mr. Lockwood forwarded a statement of his charges against the commission, which was in part as follows:

"When I came before your honorable body on the 17th of last June to testify, I took occasion to express to you my apprehension that this great railroad trust monopoly combination was gradually, by its influence, placing in the higger courts judges who were in sympathy with the present monopolistic condition of affairs.
"I stated the facts in the Matthews case as an important point in evidence. One of the commissioners raised a point of order, and objected to the facts as stated in the and objected to the facts as stated in the Matthews case being admitted as evidence. "The presiding officer decided that the evidence was admissible and the commission accepted the testimony. "Yesterdny, after many applications, I received the proof sheets of my testimony as prepared under the authority of this commission. I find that the most vital words, sentences and paragraphs have been stricken out. In fact, I find that the whole chapter of facts in regard to the Matthews chapter of facts in regard to the Matthews case has been stricken out. And I have come to ask you by what authority this was done? Has the commission ordered it done? If not, who has?"

heen strick ask you by what a skin the commission orde.

Who has?"

I league adopted a resolution askin the omitted portion of Mr. Lockwood's fimony be printed.

Secretary Sackett's Statement.

Mr. William E. Sackett, secretary of the commission, today made the following statement concerning Mr. Lockwood's testimony:

"After the testimony of the gentlemen selling—all qualities, the commission, today made the following statement concerning Mr. Lockwood's testimony:

"After the testimony of the gentlemen selling—all qualities, from the place of an editor. One samulated ergon both sides for loc, yd, tem—ants.

Of course, it is not his business, nor is he permitted, to change the purport of the wit-ness' testimony, or to give it another flavor than that which he himself gives to it when upon the stand.

"In the ordinary course, Mr. Lockwood's testimony went into the hands of the editor and was subjected to this treatment. If the editor had not been over-liberal, it would have been cut very much more than it was; nave been cut very much more than it was, as a matter of fact, there was nothing taken from it except paragraphs in which he made charges against certain judicial officers concerning which, he admitted, when pr ssed, he had no personal information. Notice was given to him while he was still in the chair and before the composition that as these charges were only was still in the chair and before the com-mission that as these charges were only hearsay, they would be stricken from the record, and the commission subsequently directed that that be done. I understand that Mr. Lockwood is not complaining of this action of the commission, however.

A Repetition.

"The paragraphs concerning the exclusion of which Mr. Lockwood is making the most clamor, are simply a repetition of views and statements that appear in other parts of his testimony. Having been said once, it was not necessary to have them appear in the record as having been said a second time. "The paragraphs concerning the excluappear in the record as naving been said second time.

"So that it may make no mistake, and to avoid all chance of doing any of its witnesses an injustice, the commission allows each to revise his testimony as finally prepared for publication in the proof; and in the natural course Mr. Lockwood's proofs were sent to him for revision and correction. He came back complaining that some things had been taken out which he things had been taken out which he for.

"So that it may make no mistake, and to avoid all the without the sold state of the second time.

Two Great Values in Linings.

One let of remnants of Linings, consisting of consisting of moire percaline, the sold from 5c. to 12/8C. In good, useful lengths—sold at 10c., 12/9c. and 12/9c. and 12/9c. and 12/9c. and 12/9c. and 15c. a yard—for. things had been taken out which he thought should have been left in, and in-sisted upon going before the commission and urging the reinsertion of the excluded matter. He is scarcely justified in saying that the commission threatened or pleaded with him to withdraw certain portions of his testimony—he rather threatened and his testimony—he rather threatened and pleaded with the commission to put it in again. Nor did the commission seek him; he insisted upon seeking it. As a result of his appearance, the commission directed Prof. Jenks, who has charge of the commission's inquiry into the trust question, to consult with him, and it was assumed that the professor and Mr. Lockwood the professor and Jenks are as to the final shape of would easily agree as to the final shape of his testimony.

No Discrimination. "Nor is Mr. Lockwood's complaint that the commission has in the least delayed the printing of his testimony well founded. Because of the hands through which the copy has to go before it finally gets into pamphlet shape it takes some weeks to get it out for such use as the commission makes of its literature. Charles C. Clark, Martin R. Cook, Henry E. G. Luytles and Gen. John McNulta appeared before the industrial commission in May. Attorney General Monnett, Messrs, Clark, Davis and General Monnett, Messrs. Clark, Davis and Westgate appeared before the commission about the same time in June as Mr. Lockwood was heard. The testimony of the May witnesses was sent to the government printer four days in advance of the time when the testimony of Monnett, Clark, Davis, Westgate and Lockwood went there. Davis, Westgate and Lockwood went there. It is not yet in pamphiet form. Monnett, Clark, Davis. Westgate and Lockwood went to the government printer all at once. The testimony of not a single one of them is yet in the hands of the commission. All of these gentlement have as much right to complain that the commission is attempting to suppress the testimony as Mr. Lockwood has. As a matter of fact, Mr. Lockwood's testimony and theirs are going through the mill together, and they will all come out together. Mr. Lockwood's testimony is not being treated any differently from that of any other witness who has been heard before the commission."

Simultaneous Messages From More

Than Two Instruments Interfere. A dispatch from New York last night ship Massachusetts, returned tonight to the anchorage off 35th street, North river, after being employed for three days in evolutions for the purpose of demonstrating the telegraphy under various practical conditions. The operations were under the direction of a board of three naval officers, appointed for the purpose, namely, Lieutenant Commander J. T. Newton, aboard the New York; Lleutenant J. W. Blish, with the instruments at Navesink, N. J., and Lieutenant F. K. Hill, aboard the Massa-

Mr. Marconi was handicapped by incomplete instruments, which had been brought to the United States simply for the pur-pose of reporting the international yacht pose of reporting the international yacht races, and was unable to give the government board as thorough a demonstration of the capabilities of the apparatus as he would have wished. The request from the Navy Department for a government test had been made too late to permit change of plans without interfering with his contract. But the result of the working of three sets of instruments employed in the tests of the past three days was to show the government board that there is a practical utility in the system, which would be of inestimable value to naval vessels durtical utility in the system, which would be of inestimable value to naval vessels during evolutions of any kind, and especially when on scouting duty.

The members of the government will be obliged to call attention to the fact that during these tests it was possible for any instrument, located within the circumscribed radius of transmission, to destroy the effectiveness of other instruments at any time. While the Massachusetts, for instance, was telegraphing to the New York, the operator at Navesink sent a message at the same time, and the result on the receiving side of the New York's set was a mass of unreadable characters, caused by the two series of electrical im-

With the wig-wag it is impossible to take messages more than two miles, and five words a minute is considered fast work, even for an expert signalman. With the wireless telegraph an average of eleven words a minute has been made on straight worded messages, although code messages take a little longer. The Marconi system has the advantage of leaving a permanent record on the receiving tape, so that any error in transmission can be traced directly to the responsible party. The latest reports say that there has been some trouble in sending messages simultaneously by several vessels, and the ether waves interfere with each other. There are ways of controling this, however, and

WORK OF A VANDAL. Complaint Made to Police by Mrs. W. C. Murphy. Mrs. Walter C. Murphy of 507 4th street called at police headquarters yesterday and reported that she had suffered at the hands of a vandal on two occasions during the past three weeks, her black satin dress having been damaged by cutting on both occasions, and she desires that the officers shall find the guilty person.

About three weeks ago, she said, while on the street, her dress was cut, and she had the damage repaired. Last Friday night she wore the same dress to the New National Theater, and when she left the place of amusement she found that her dress had again been damaged in the same No attention was paid to the matter on No attention was paid to the matter on the first occasion, but the repetition, she thought, should result in the punishment of the vandal. She had not the slightest idea of the identity of the party offending, nor have the police yet obtained any clue upon which to work. Detective Weedon is investigating the case.

During the "Dewe" celebration several dresses were cut w. e the victims were in the crowd. When the first complaint was made it was believed it was the work of made it was believed it was the work of rogue who attempted to get a pocket book. Subsequent reports indicated that it was an act of maliciousness or the work of a crank. of a crank.

The police also learned that the individual, to whom they refer as "Jack the Cutter," slashed the dress of Mrs. Reilly, wife of Attorney William B. Reilly, at the National Theater Saturday afternoon. Her dress was completely ruined. It is stated at police headquarters that this man had
